is deemed to be detrimental to the Program. This covers, but is not limited to, respecting others' cultures and beliefs, working responsibly at your Project, respecting the accommodation and avoiding drugs and illegal activities.

Possible Reasons for Termination once in Host Country

AVIC encourages its PARTICIPANTS to enjoy free time, whether close to their Project site or while travelling. However, the conduct of PARTICIPANTS does reflect on AVIC and its community Programs, even when PARTICIPANTS are not at the Project site or actively engaged with the Program. For this reason certain inappropriate behaviors will not be tolerated and will be evaluated on a case by case basis by the Country Director and other AVIC administrative staff, as possible reasons for a PARTICIPANT's expulsion from the Program.

Such behaviors include but are not limited to:

- Putting at risk one's own safety or the safety of fellow PARTICIPANTS
- Jeopardizing AVICs image or relationship within the community in which we work
- Drunkenness which results in inappropriate or disorderly conduct
- Aggression or violence expressed either verbally or physically
- Lewd behavior especially of a sexual nature
- Lateness to Projects or being absent without approval from AVIC administrative staff
- Repeated disregard of the Dress Code
- Breaking the rules set out in the Code of Conduct
- A PARTICIPANT expelled from their Placement, for whatever reason, will not receive any reimbursement of fees.

Force Majeure

There are various events that AVIC is unable to control that may arise and cause disruption, delay or cancellation of your Program. Such circumstances are likely to include: war or threat of war, terrorist activity or threat of such activity, riots or civil strife, industrial action, natural or nuclear disaster, fire, adverse weather conditions, health risks and epidemics, labor dispute, strike, work slow down or work stoppage and all similar circumstances beyond AVICs control (collectively "Force Majeure").

If your Placement is disrupted by an unusual event or circumstances that AVIC could not realistically have foreseen, which significantly affects your Placement, we will try to arrange a suitable alternative Placement as soon as is reasonably possible. This will be at another location where the unusual circumstances are not occurring. You have the right to accept or decline the alternative.

AVIC does not make any refunds in these situations and you will be responsible for any travel costs incurred. AVIC cannot accept liability for the effect of any unusual event or for any loss, damage, expense or claim of any description you suffer as a result. .
